Full-Stack Software Developer

Qool Media is looking for a Full-Stack Software Developer to join our Publishing team to help us build next generation marketing platforms for the social and search channels. This role is a full-time position located at our office in Guelph, ON.

The ideal candidate is self-motivated and interested in doing quality work in a dynamic and collaborative environment. Flexibility, a drive to have an impact, a knack for solving tough engineering problems, and the ability to collaborate and communicate effectively are keys to success in this position. If you like to develop cloud services, process large volumes of data, and work on optimization algorithms, then you will enjoy working with us.

Working within the Publishing team, you'll:

· Own individual software development lifecycles; meet with stakeholders to obtain project specifications; deliver on client and product manager expectations
· Write production quality code from scratch to deployment
· Use personal experience and insight to build out new features, using technologies that are best suited to the job
· Maintain and improve upon our platforms currently coded using .NET, MSSQL, and Angular JS
· Utilize many different technologies such as WCF, MVC, Memcached, and .Net Core
· Have end-to-end ownership of systems and services; design, develop, and launch services; have thorough understanding of the entire system

You have:

· BS in Computer Science or equivalent
· 3-4 years' experience writing and shipping code
· Strong understanding of object-oriented programming and related principles, and service-oriented architectures
· Proficient experience with .NET, C#, and MSSQL is a must · Proficiency with AngularJS is a plus
· Experience with HTML, CSS, and JavaScript is a plus
· Familiarity with Agile methodologies, domain driven design, and TDD is a plus
· Experience with service-oriented frameworks, such as WCF, is a plus
· Experience with MVC development architecture is a plus
· Excellent verbal and written communication skills
